A school is a place where people go to learn different subjects. In a school, one or more teachers help students to learn. In many places around the world, all children have to go to school for a certain number of years. Learning may take place in the classroom, in outside environments or on visits to other places. Colleges and universities are places to learn for students over 17 or 18. Vocational schools teach skills people need for jobs. Some people attend school longer than others. This is because some jobs require more training than others. For young children, one teacher is able to teach all subjects. Teachers for older students are often specialised and they only teach a few subjects. Common subjects taught include science, history and languages.

Charles Robert Darwin was an English naturalist. He is famous for his work on the theory of evolution. His book On the Origin of Species did two things. First, it provided a great deal of evidence that evolution has taken place. Second, it proposed a theory to explain how evolution works. Evolution and natural selection are the key to understanding the variety of life on Earth. Darwin spent almost five years on board a Royal Navy exploring ship. He was the guest naturalist, which meant that he was responsible for making collections and notes about the animals, plants, and the geology of the countries they visited. The ship's crew made charts of all the coastal areas, which could be used by the navy wherever it went in the world.

An orange is a type of fruit which people often eat. Oranges are a very good source of vitamins, especially vitamin C. Orange juice is an important part of many people's breakfast. The "sweet orange", which is the kind that is most often eaten today, first grew in Asia but now grows in many parts of the world. Oranges are round orange-coloured fruits that grow on a tree which can be 10 metres high. Orange trees have dark green shiny leaves and small white flowers with five petals. The flowers smell very sweet which attracts many bees. An orange has a shiny skin. Inside, the fruit is divided into "segments", which have thin tough skins that hold together many little sections with juice inside.

- A. Koalas live in Australia and New Zealand. "Koala" means "no drink" in the language of the native Australian people as koalas do not drink much water. First Europeans who visited Australia in the late 1700s thought that koalas looked like bears. But koalas are not bears, they are marsupials. This means that female koalas have a pocket of skin on their bellies where baby koalas are carried.
- B. Julius Caesar was a popular figure in the Roman Republic. He played a critical role in the events that led to the rise of the Roman Empire. He was also known as a notable author of prose. In 60 BC, Caesar, Crassus and Pompey formed a political alliance that dominated Roman politics for several years. Caesar was regarded as the Father of his country.
- C. The search for habitable environments in the universe is one of the priorities of scientists. So, Mars is the focus of many scientific studies about possible human colonisation. Mars' surface conditions and past presence of water make it the most hospitable planet in the Solar System besides Earth. Mars requires less energy per unit mass to reach from Earth than any planet, except Venus.
- D. Founded in Paris in 1895, Le Cordon today has become a network of over thirty schools and programmes in fifteen countries. Le Cordon maintains close relations with the culinary industry and sets the standard of excellence. Known for classical French cuisine, Le cordon continues to teach long-celebrated culinary traditions.
- E. Since the publication of his adventures, Harry Potter has caused more disagreement among parents who decide what children should read, than any other children's novel in recent memory. J. K. Rowling did something new and set her story in contemporary England. Conservative parents may view with suspicion the fight against evil because good does not always win in Harry Potter's world.

Canada is a North American country consisting of ten provinces and three territories. Located in the northern part of the continent, it extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific and northward into the Arctic Ocean. Canada is the world's second-largest country by total area, and its common border with the United States is the world's longest land border. The land that is now Canada has been inhabited for millennia by various Aboriginal peoples. Beginning in the late 15th century, British and French colonial expeditions explored, and later settled, the region's Atlantic coast. Canada's advanced economy is one of the largest in the world, relying mainly upon its natural resources and well-developed trade networks, especially with the United States, with which it has a long and complex relationship.

Jazz is a genre of music that originated at the beginning of the 20th century within the African-American communities of the Southern United States. Its roots lie in the African-American adoption of European harmony and form to existing African musical elements. African musical influences are evident in the use of blue notes and improvisation. From its early development until the present day, jazz has also incorporated elements from American popular music. As the music has developed and spread around the world it has drawn on many different national, regional, and local musical cultures. While jazz is considered difficult to define, improvisation is regarded as being one of its key elements. Forms of jazz that are commercially oriented or influenced by popular music have been criticized widely.

In botany, a fruit is a plant structure that contains the plant's seeds. To a botanist, the word fruit is used only if it comes from the part of the flower. It is an extra layer around the seeds, which may or may not be fleshy. However, even in the field of botany, there is no general agreement on how fruits should be classified. Many do have extra layers from other parts of the flower. In general speech, and especially in cooking, fruits are a sweet product, and many botanical fruits are known as vegetables. This is how ordinary people use the words. If the entire fruit is fleshy, except for maybe a thin skin, we call the fruit a berry. A berry might contain one seed or many.

A silent film is a film with no recorded sound, especially spoken dialogue. The idea of combining motion pictures with sound is nearly as old as filming itself, but because of the technical challenges involved, a dialogue was only made possible in the late 1920s with the introduction of sound systems. The silent film era is sometimes referred to as the "Age of the Silver Screen". The first film was created in 1888. Showings of silent films almost always featured live music. From the beginning, music was recognised as essential, contributing to the atmosphere and giving the audience important emotions. Silent film actors emphasized body language and facial expression so that the audience could better understand what an actor was feeling and portraying on screen.

Waste is any material which is no longer useful as it has served its purpose or at the end of the process has no further use. It is unwanted materials and objects that people have thrown away. It is often also called trash, rubbish, or junk. It can be solid, liquid, or gas, or it can be waste heat. There are many different kinds of waste. Garbage is the waste we produce daily in our homes, including old or unwanted food, chemical substances, paper, broken furniture, used containers, and other things. When waste is a liquid or gas, it can be called an emission. This is usually pollution. Waste can also be something abstract (something that you cannot touch), for example "a waste of time" or "wasted opportunities".

- A. The College of Idaho is a private liberal arts college in the western United States, located in Caldwell. Founded 127 years ago in 1891, it is the state's oldest private college, with an enrollment of 1,140 students. Seventy percent of its students are from the state of Idaho, while international students comprise nearly 10% of the total number. Other students are from more than twenty other American states.
- B. Humanity's interest in the heavens is universal and enduring. Humans are driven to explore the unknown and discover new worlds, push the boundaries of our scientific and technical limits; and then push further. This is the beginning of a new era in space exploration in which people will be challenged to develop systems and capabilities required to explore beyond low-Earth orbit, including destinations such as near-Earth asteroids and Mars.
- C. The U.S. dollar's status as the leading international currency has been an enduring feature of the post-1945 world. But questions about the future of the dollar's international standing are now heard with increasing frequency. It is also important not to confuse the value with its role in different countries. In the context of growing public interest, some scholars tried to analyse the data and highlight major trends.
- D. Anton Chekhov is a Russian playwright and short story writer. He is considered to be among the greatest writers of short fiction in history. His career as a playwright produced lots of plays; and his best short stories are held in high esteem by writers and critics. Along with Henrik Ibsen and August Strindberg, Chekhov is often referred to as one of the three most important figures in the birth of early modernism in the theatre.
- E. China's fashion sense has grown and changed dramatically in the last decade. From post Mao era to current day China, there have been many influences on Chinese fashion. One major influence on the development of Chinese street fashion is the rise of the middle class. More now than ever before, Chinese teenagers want to be more individualized, and have their own fashion sense rather than blend in with the crowd.

The Atlantic Ocean is the world's second largest ocean. It covers a total area of about 106 million square kilometres. It covers about 20 percent of the Earth's surface. It is named after the god Atlas from Greek mythology. Its name means "Sea of Atlas." The Atlantic Ocean is bounded on the west by North and South Americas. It connects to the Arctic Ocean through the Denmark Strait, the Greenland Sea and the Norwegian Sea. In the southeast, the Atlantic merges into the Indian Ocean. The 20 degrees East meridian defines its border. The Atlantic Ocean is second in size to the Pacific. The average depth of the Atlantic, along with its seas, is 4000 metres. The Atlantic Ocean has important ocean currents. One of these, called the Gulf Stream, flows across the North Atlantic.

Now we are ready to start.

Laura Hi, Harry! I'm so glad you're here! I've been looking for you.

Harry Hi Laura! What's up?

Laura I'm writing a school project about jobs, and my brother told me that you're working as a consultant. Can I ask you a few questions?

Harry Well, it depends on what exactly you want to know, but I'll do my best!

Laura Great, thanks a lot. So, what do you think makes people choose one profession over another? Personal preferences? Academic results? Family influence?

Harry Hmm, well it's a difficult question. I think it's very individual. Either way, though, the best way to choose a career is to take a little time to reflect on what you like to do.

Laura I see. But what if you're not sure what you want?

Harry Look, there are some people who choose banking, for example, as a career. This choice is based on pragmatic concerns such as the ease of finding a job in this field and the salary it could provide.

Laura I see. But there are lots of ways that people can make a living. One more question. Have you ever interviewed anyone for a job?

Harry No, never. Actually, I'm a career consultant. My job is to provide guidance for people making choices about their career. I also offer practical assistance with job seeking, applications and interviews.

Laura Wow, that's amazing! By the way, do you have to do a lot of paperwork?

Harry Sometimes. You know, I run workshops, write action plans and help applicants prepare for interviews.

Laura Cool! But what if people choose the wrong careers? What should they do then?

Harry Well, one thing which is really very important is to start by asking yourself who you are, and not what you want. Let's talk about that. Imagine you're 35, broke, and feeling lost. How can you turn your life around?

Laura Improve my skill set?

Harry No. You should ask yourself: "What is it I love doing? What's my life's passion?" And so on. You'd be surprised at how many people want a skill that others take for granted.

Laura So, the easiest way is...

Harry I'm not saying getting there will be easy. Just believe in yourself before setting off on what could be another fruitless journey. A more positive attitude always helps, too, and gives you a glow that others can see. Skills, meanwhile, can always be learned.

Laura Thanks for your recommendations, Harry! I'll definitely think about everything you said.

Harry You're welcome!

Now we are ready to start.

Rebecca Hi Adam! How are things?

Adam Hi Rebecca! I'm alright, apart from the fact that I'm having problems with French.

Rebecca French? What do you mean? Are you studying it?

Adam Yes, and frankly speaking, I'm not happy about having to learn foreign languages.

Rebecca Oh, come on! More than 220 million people speak French worldwide! And it's the second most widely studied language after English!

Adam Yeah, the second! You said it! English is the most commonly spoken language in the world. So why should I waste my time trying to learn French, Spanish, Italian, or whatever else?

Rebecca Adam, shame on you! The ability to speak both French and English is a huge advantage on the international job market. As a native English speaker, you should be happy!

Adam Well, but English is based on a simple alphabet and is fairly quick and easy to learn compared to other languages. Why bother learning French then? I think the world would be better if everybody spoke the same language.

Rebecca Really? Hmm, OK, I think I know what the problem is. When did you start learning French?

Adam Six months ago.

Rebecca That's the problem. Learning languages can be difficult for adults. For children, learning a language is part of their brain chemistry. Their brains are literally built to absorb information, and they do this subconsciously. Adults and older children, on the other hand, have to learn the information consciously, which makes it harder because when we learn that way, information sometimes gets lost.

Adam So... you mean that, when you're an adult, you have to learn all the grammar rules?

Rebecca Yes, that's exactly right. You see, instead of learning everything at once, maybe you should learn French little by little.

Adam Well, maybe you're right. But, in all honesty, I don't think I have any motivation at all.

Rebecca Look, French is the international language of cooking, fashion, theatre, the visual arts, dance and architecture. Knowledge of the language gives you access to the great works of French literature, as well as films and songs. And don't you want to visit Paris?

Adam Well...OK, I guess you have a point. In your opinion, then, what's the best way to learn and practice a foreign language?

Rebecca Well, you know, French is an easy language to learn. There are many resources on the market now that make learning French enjoyable for children and adults alike, and it really doesn't take long to reach a level where you can communicate confidently and accurately.

Adam Well, it looks like I need a fresh start, then. Thanks for your support!

Rebecca You're welcome! Alright, well, I have to go now. Bye!

Adam Have a nice day! See you!

- Amanda Hi Robert! You look great! What are you doing to keep fit?
Robert Hi Amanda! Great question! I go to the gym twice a week. You know, staying fit really does wonders for your life and can help you be a happy and healthy person.
Amanda Haha yes, but unfortunately I'm very lazy! I understand that I need to keep fit, but I just don't have enough time.
Robert Well, start with walking or jogging. No matter what your speed is, these sports are very important parts of a healthy lifestyle as they're activities that keep your muscles active and your blood flowing.
Amanda Well you know, I bike to school sometimes, but I don't think it really helps. I'm getting fat, I'm afraid!
Robert Mmm, well don't forget about food. It's 80 percent diet and 20 percent exercise! You can get in shape easily. Eating vegetables, for example, is obviously very good for you.
Amanda Really? I've never given much thought to my diet. My sister's a vegetarian, but I love meat. But OK, with that in mind, what's for lunch?
Robert That really depends — it's a personal thing. You shouldn't feel pressured to give up meat completely, but don't be afraid to ask a professional how to eat healthy as well.
Amanda But what would you recommend?
Robert Well, healthy eating isn't just about strict dietary limitations or staying unrealistically thin. But we all know that eating right can help you maintain weight, so eat more fresh fruits and vegetables, cook meals at home, and reduce your sugar and coffee intake.
Amanda Do I need to eliminate certain categories of food from my diet?
Robert Oh, no, never! I mean, protein gives us the energy to get up and go, and good fats protect our brain and heart. Your body also uses calcium to build healthy bones and teeth and to keep them strong as you age. You see, you don't have to be perfect. To set yourself up for success, think about building and maintaining a healthy diet as a number of small, manageable steps— like adding a salad to your diet once a day.
Amanda Well OK, I see what you mean now. You're talking about fostering new habits, yeah?
Robert Yes, something like that.
Amanda But do I have to skip breakfast or supper?
Robert Certainly not. A healthy breakfast can jumpstart your metabolism. Just avoid eating late at night. And don't forget to satisfy your sweet tooth! But by that I mean to eat naturally sweet vegetables, such as carrots, beets, or sweet potatoes. They'll add sweetness to your meals.
Amanda Ha, well I usually get my sweet fix with chocolate shakes from McDonald's.
Robert Ohh shame on you, Amanda! You have to give up junk food!
Amanda You must be joking! But anyway, I hope I'll like the gym atmosphere, and that they've got a membership option that fits my needs. Unfortunately, though, I have to go now. Bye!
Robert OK, I hope to see you there! Bye!

Now we are ready to start.

Pat Hi, Mark! It's good to see you!

Mark Hi Pat! I've been looking for you, actually.

Pat Really? What's up?

Mark I need your help. I heard you're an alumnus of The London School of Economics. Is that true?

Pat Yeah. But I'm sorry, I don't sign any recommendation letters because I'm not a professor.

Mark Oh no, you've got me all wrong. I just need a piece of advice. I'd like to take the opportunity to study in Wales, and I've finally made an appointment with my overseas studies advisor. But I'm still having doubts about the accommodation costs.

Pat Wow, well, first of all, my congratulations! It may seem obvious, but it's a big world out there! Now, though, it's important to make a shortlist of destinations that are attractive to you — either different colleges or different cities within the same country. Anyway, the main question is: what do you want or need to study?

Mark Well, that's also a problem, actually, and I don't feel like I have a good answer.

Pat Maybe you know someone who studied in Wales? Some students take the opportunity to study abroad in order to take classes in something totally unrelated to their major.

Mark Oh, no. My major is social studies, and Cardiff University is in the top five for research excellence in this field. I am going there as an Erasmus+ student.

Pat Erasmus? What's that?

Mark It's a programme that offers students the opportunity to study in Cardiff for up to one year, and which counts towards their degree from their regular institution. They promise that I'll benefit from a challenging and rewarding experience!

- Pat Well, I think it's a fantastic opportunity for your personal, social and academic development!
- Mark Yeah, I agree!
- Pat Well, then why are you worried?
- Mark Well... should I accept this offer? Or would it be better to go to London?
- Pat As the capital of Wales, Cardiff is a thriving and beautiful city! It's widely recognised as an outstanding place to live and study in! Regardless of whether you're there for a full year or just for a few months, you'll definitely benefit from excellent learning resources!
- Mark Money also plays a big role here. London is far more expensive than Cardiff.
- Pat You know, being an exchange student can be expensive. Who pays for your expenses during the program?
- Mark As a general rule, students must pay the organization in order to cover the travel fees. I might consider getting a part-time job in Cardiff.
- Pat That makes sense.
- Mark Okay, thanks a lot for your guidance! I have to go now, but hopefully, I'll see you soon!

Now we are ready to start.

Mary Hi Brian! Long time no see! How are you getting on?

Brian Oh, hi, Mary! I'm OK. You know, your sister told me that you'd been volunteering in Russia. Is that true?

Mary It is! I was in Saint Petersburg last year. This city is home to a large number of charitable organizations that are always happy to welcome new volunteers, and I was offered the chance to volunteer in both clinical and non-clinical areas.

Brian Amazing! And was this experience beneficial to you?

Mary Oh yes, definitely. You know, the opportunity to expand your social network is one of the most significant benefits of doing volunteer work. And, now that I've learned some Russian, I can also read the classics! I love Leo Tolstoy's novels, for example.

Brian So do I! His books are amazing! But, well, hmm, did you have any problems with your visa?

Mary Oh yes. Applying for a visa is a long process. Typically, you fill out the visa application forms online, print them, and then mail them in. It actually took me two months to get approved. If you're in a pinch, however, there are agencies that will fill out the paperwork and secure a visa for you at lightning speed.

Brian Oh, I see. You know, I want to work in an educational field. Is it possible in Moscow?

Mary Of course! There are lots of teaching opportunities in Russia, and they can range from classes with elementary school kids to working with young adults.

Brian Well, do you know how to apply? Do I need to have a special certificate? Is it possible to teach in Russia without a degree?

Mary Well, frankly speaking, you're not going to be a professional teacher anyway; your role is just to assist. So your native-English speaking abilities are usually more than enough.

Brian Okay, great. Thanks! But it all still sounds very complicated to me.

Mary Come on! It's inevitable that countries will require different qualifications for English instructors, but it's not a problem at all. You'd better think about the language barrier, though. Do you speak Russian?

Brian Well, no. But there are plenty of ways I can learn, I'm sure.

Mary How? Are you studying human gestures?

Brian Haha, very funny. Stop it. I honestly don't foresee any problems here.

Mary Maybe you're right. But anyway, if you have a particular interest in Russian culture, it'd be a good idea to read up on it before you go.

Brian I will. Can you tell me about some of the financial benefits?

Mary Well, unfortunately, I don't know much about that. But either way, volunteering in any field can really help pave the way for a future career.

Brian Well thanks a lot, I really appreciate your help! I have to go now. See you!

Mary Bye!

Now we are ready to start.

- Carlene Hi John! Thanks for agreeing to meet up today. I feel so stressed all the time and it's driving me mad.
- John Hey! No worries, Carlene. I know how it feels. I only finished writing my exams 3 months ago, so I know firsthand how brutal it can be when you don't make an effort to manage your stress.
- Carlene Oh, really? Can you advise me on how to prepare for my math exam, then?
- John Of course! First of all, know that it's normal to feel overwhelmed and stressed at times. You just need to figure out how to tackle your problems and cope with things that aren't going your way.
- Carlene I see. But I'm not clear on some basic algebraic concepts, and I'm very concerned about my progress as a result.
- John Were you absent from any of the lectures?
- Carlene Well, actually, yes. I missed some lessons because I caught the flu. It took me three weeks to recover.
- John Well, then that's why you aren't able to solve some of the problems. You just don't have the core math skills. You need to master them before moving on to the more advanced material.
- Carlene Do you have any suggestions for activities I could do to work on those skills? I don't know much about the properties of rational numbers, for example. And writing different kinds of equations is my worst nightmare.
- John Well, first you need to write down all of your questions. If you don't understand something, focus on mastering that topic before moving on to the next one.
- Carlene It sounds simple.
- John But it's absolutely essential. Look, my English literature teacher makes students analyze poems every week, and we have to write down even the simplest things.
- Carlene Hmm, well that sounds pretty useful.
- John Exactly. You know, there isn't just one right way to help you, Carlene. Why don't you try talking to your math teacher? The next time you see her, ask if she can help.
- Carlene You think it's a good idea? I mean, what if she thinks that I'm not actually interested and just fishing for a good mark?
- John A good teacher is always ready to help. Just let the teacher know that you want to work together.
- Carlene I see. Well, another problem is that I don't want to let my parents down, so I'm nervous about the exam. I still have about 3 weeks to prepare, and I'm hoping to get at least a B.

John Remember, there's no silver bullet when it comes to learning math. You'll only get better by taking things one step at a time, and with practice.
 Carlene I got it. Okay, I've got to go now. It was great talking to you, John!
 John See you!

Now we are ready to start.

Joan Hi, Matthew! Happy New Year!
 Matthew Hi Joan! Happy New Year to you too, and may the universe bless you in surprising and joyful ways! Personally, I'm looking forward to more hugs in 2018!
 Joan Haha, you prepared that whole speech, didn't you? Well anyway, how was your party?
 Matthew I did the New Year's countdown with my family. How about you?
 Joan I worked until 6 pm and then met some friends afterwards. So tell me, have you made any New Year's resolutions?
 Matthew No, I never do. How can New Year's resolutions be a catalyst for change? I just don't believe in them. But anyway, on a different note, what do you know about how New Year's is celebrated in other countries?

- Joan I read that on New Year's Eve in Spain, people eat twelve grapes in time with the chimes of the clock at midnight.
- Matthew Really? Wow, what an interesting tradition! Are any special foods eaten at your family's New Year's party?
- Joan Oh, well my parents have their own "lucky" foods, you know, and this year was no exception. Greens, black-eyed peas, pork, and cornbread are some of the most typical and symbolic foods served on New Year's Day.
- Matthew Well, I think that sounds like the perfect New Year's Day dinner menu. Pork is considered a sign of prosperity in some cultures, and it's tasty too, so I love it! But in Russia, for example, New Year's isn't complete without traditional Russian salads. That must be fun.
- Joan Oh yes! I was actually in Moscow two years ago, in December. It was very snowy there.
- Matthew What?! Really?! I'm already green with envy! How did you find Russia?
- Joan To be perfectly honest, Russia was never high up on my travel bucket list. I was expecting something different, but it was great nevertheless. I had a major event while I was there, though, which was just incredible.
- Matthew Event? What do you mean? What did you visit during your stay in Russia?
- Joan Not much, but while I was there I attended an academic conference. For many people, that means a lot of fun opportunities to meet people, develop ideas, promote yourself, and get inspired.
- Matthew Oh, I see. As for me, I find conferences inspirational and energizing opportunities to connect with the greater scientific community. Unfortunately, I didn't complete a PhD thesis.
- Joan Neither did I! Unfortunately, I failed to graduate. But, well, anyway, it's been great seeing you again. I must be off now, though.
- Matthew Sure! Say hello to your parents for me! Have a nice day!
- Joan Bye!

- Mike Hello, Jane! It's good to see you! How are things?
Jane Hi, Mike! Oh, I'm OK. Tired, as usual, but apart from that, everything's fine. My school's holding its exams in a week, so I have to study hard. What about you?
Mike Yeah, not too bad. That's a really cool wool jacket you're wearing. Where did you get it?
Jane I ordered it online, actually. It's a web catalogue that has lots of designer stuff at much cheaper prices than in the shops. It's the real deal, Mike.
Mike It really suits you. So, on average, how much do you spend on clothes?
Jane Oh, I never keep track of such things. But my mum reckons I spend more on clothes than a typical teenager.
Mike Mmm, she may have a point actually, but nowadays good clothes are really expensive. And you prefer good quality stuff, don't you?
Jane Oh, yes. I'm fond of top designer labels and all that. I know some stores that sell end-of-season stock at heavily discounted prices. Who doesn't love a good deal on new clothes?
Mike Yep. Well, there are people who like good clothes but they don't buy a lot of them because they choose very carefully. My sister, for example, doesn't go shopping very often, but when she does, she always thinks hard about what she's buying.
Jane Really? And how often does she go shopping?
Mike Once a month, I suppose.
Jane Unbelievable! As for me, I tend to buy something new each week. I love shopping, you know. I go every week and always end up buying something. Unfortunately, half the time I get home and realise that it was a mistake to buy whatever I bought because it doesn't really suit me, so then I never wear it.
Mike But why don't you try things on? Or get your friends to say what they think? My friends are usually quite straight with me.
Jane Yes, but they are not the ones who have to pay for it! They can just say, "It's great! Buy it!" And the problem for me is that none of my friends are into fashion and style. They spend ages chatting with people and yet never notice fake labels or anything like that.
Mike Oh, yeah. So, you spend half your time shopping, and the other half worrying about what people think of your outfit?
Jane Come on, Mike! It's really important to dress nicely and look smart. The way you look plays a big role in your success in life.
Mike Well, there is some truth in that, but only up to a point. If, for example, your clothes are too big or too small, they're obviously not going to look good.
Jane Sounds like you and I have got the same opinion!
Mike But... Ok, you won. We could have a look round the shops, if you like, and see what's new.
Jane Good idea!

- Jessica Hi, Ian! How are things? Oh, you've got a new phone! Is it an iPhone X?
- Ian Hi, Jessica! Oh yes, my brother bought it a few days ago. But he didn't like the new model at all, so he gave it to me.
- Jessica You must be kidding! What a lovely new gadget you now have! You're so lucky! I'm planning on buying one myself in the next couple of months. It has enough new features, like wireless charging, to satisfy me for the next year, I think, haha.
- Ian Well yes, I am lucky! I'd never buy it myself because I don't have $1,000. And actually, I was pretty happy with my old phone, apart from the fact that I had problems with the battery.
- Jessica Well, technology has changed our world. New gadgets are really smart, and getting smarter all the time.
- Ian Do you think that technology is developing faster than it used to?
- Jessica Of course. Predicting what technologies will emerge next is an extremely difficult task, though. But I'm no tech lover. I mean, I won't be going shopping for new gadgets every week!
- Ian But there are still some new gadgets that you want badly, right? After all, you did just say that you're all hyped up about buying the latest thing.
- Jessica Come on, stop it. It's just because my apps don't work properly. My phone has never been this slow.
- Ian Slow? Have you updated your operating system recently?
- Jessica Oh yes, I always do it. I always install the new releases.
- Ian You know, even a tiny update can make an impact on your device's performance. Indeed, Twitter is full of people complaining about their phones slowing down after they downloaded new systems.

Jessica So what should I do?
Ian Well, with the exception of small updates, don't upgrade the operating system of the hardware you're using. Especially if it's getting the job done as is.
Jessica Unfortunately, I wasn't able to restart my phone, though. Some applications had stopped working, so I was forced to upgrade to the new OS.
Ian Okay, well that's a different story. But I'm a skeptic and don't trust the "newest" version of anything. There's no reason to consider installing all the updates right now. And what about stability? If it ain't broke, don't fix it.
Jessica OK, I see. It's just smart marketing. But anyway, there are several reasons why it's worth buying. A brand-new phone from Apple is always a good bargain, of course.
Ian Well, I have to admit that it is convenient to use. And if you care a lot about photography, this phone is perfect for you.
Jessica Mmm. Where's the best place to sell my old gadget? I think it's time I got a new phone!
Ian I know that there are some special places where you can go. But don't forget to erase all your personal data first!
Jessica Ok, thank you! Alright, well, I have to go. See you!

- Liz Hi Ben! Do you fancy going to see a show tonight? I've got tickets for us.
Ben Hey, Liz! Sure! Great idea! What's on?
Liz I've got my notes here, so I'll have a look. Oh, it's the musical Boris Godunov.
Ben Oh, I read a review of it in our school magazine. It's supposed to be interesting. I know a lot about Russian history, and I really love this country. But why have you chosen a musical?
Liz Mmm, well I like musicals because I like singing and dancing, and I love listening to live music and seeing how well its incorporated into a larger show.
Ben Well, as for me, I prefer going to see plays. My mum and dad are very keen on the theatre too, actually.
Liz Wow! Can you tell me something about it? I mean, do you go to the theatre quite often?
Ben Yes, definitely. I like to be entertained and to escape from reality for a while. But you know, I'm not such a big fan of musicals.
Liz Oh, come on! They have lovely costumes and marvelous scenery! A theater-goer should experience something different for a change! This is your chance!
Ben Fine, I see your point. By the way, how do you feel about technology being used to enhance a performance?
Liz Well, I don't like it. For example, I've read most of Shakespeare's plays and the story is always what gets my attention first. Computer generated music tracks could never replace the passionate dialogues of the various characters.
Ben But don't you think that it makes plays more memorable? I mean, it's an added bonus. It's done live, right in front of you, and you're part of it.
Liz Well anyway, it's not so important to me, and sometimes it's even distracting. For me, the theatre is an intellectual pastime. It should be emotionally and intellectually demanding.
Ben Well, OK. Let's forget that, then. How about getting a cup of coffee before the show?
Liz As you know, a pre-theatre meal is the first act for any good theatre-goer.
Ben Great! Well, it was great to see you again. I must be off now, though. Bye!
